SOCIAL ENTREPRENEUR

For the purpose of working on preserving nature with natural resources, sharing my willingness to dedicate rest of my life for rendering relentless humanitarian services as an instrument towards a better tomorrow for many more generations in as much as possible ways and times to come endlessly.

Having witnessed the changing world with the introduction of ideas & addition of the unbelievable approach of mankind transformed within the last two decades has led to my active association in upholding and pursuing humanitarian issues by working towards sustainable socio-economic empowerment projects from time to time.

I strongly believe that the Art of Giving is diminishing in today's youth so I continuously strive to impart moral values among youth in this accord through my motivational sessions at various platforms.

As a social entrepreneur I am involved in setting up sustainable sectoral livelihood units for ensuring self-reliance among handicapped as well as underprivileged youth & women as I believe that empowerment of the society/country from holistic empowerment of women thus my focus is on the economic empowerment of women through creation of sustainable industrial models & providing jobs for handicapped youth to minimize unemployment that I always feel is the biggest curse & root to destruction of mankind.

The initiative of preserving nature & natural resources correlates to my thoughts when one gives selfless service for humanity, one learns the ability to genuinely identify the needy compared to institutional care with paid humanitarian services. In today's era, it is important to provide humanitarian services since I am concerned about the widening gap of depleting value systems in the unemployed & how institutional intervention is necessary for same along with the business ethics that can be taken forward with the team of like-minded intellectuals.

I am always looking for application oriented new technologies to bridge in socio-economic development at grassroots by actively associating in upholding and pursuing humanitarian issues by working towards sustainable socio-economic empowerment projects. I have been counseling drug addicts especially the youth & the vulnerable women helping them to come out of traumas & ordeals that lead to unfair means due to various circumstances in their respective lives.

I have the drive to develop business relationships, generate profits and create winning business strategies.

I am proficient at identifying organizational needs, have the desire to build business relationships and possess the ability to lead others. I excel at motivating groups, establishing project missions, developing strategic plans to win new business and adjusting to market conditions to develop mutually respectful and trust relationships.

Although coming from a bureaucratic background I started my career in the Textile/Spinning Industry that led to exploring many ventures simultaneously over the years. With vast experience & in-depth knowledge of various fields/industry the relations developed through the years in overseas and domestic market, today I am in this position with the independent charge as a successful professional & a social entrepreneur.

As a trustee of IHRO till 2018, had been involved into charitable activities and actively associated in upholding humanitarian issues by working towards sustainable socio-economic sectoral empowerment projects one of which was set up by me in Dehradun, Uttarakhand in the year 2017 as a hand loom livelihood unit for unemployed illiterate rural women making them self-reliant because empowerment of the nation starts from holistic empowerment of women.

I strongly feel that in today's era it's important to provide humanitarian services to the handicaps, vulnerable & marginalized especially women & underprivileged children/youth who all are spiritually malnourished etc.

I believe the secret of peace & happiness lies in rendering selflessly & giving to society endlessly with the strength of character and best of one's ability.

I look forward for a society where future generations are taught to learn the art to give selflessly by their involvement in sustainable projects without any expectation of receiving but imbibe the nature through its natural resources that play a vital role in the existence of mankind.
